Fund Performance Review & Market Commentary

The Aeon Domestic Balanced Fund was up by 0.11% for the second quarter of 2021 and is up 16.77% over a one-year period.

The quarter ended June saw global equity markets strongly positive following positive sentiment over the rollout of vaccines in multiple countries, and improved economic and earnings data. Despite the continued increase in the number of global Covid-19 cases, market participants are seeing through this, and are now more optimistic about the recovery of the world's economy as vaccine deployment and acceptance continues to improve. Markets were further buoyed with the easing of restrictions in some European countries, the continued rise in commodity prices due to higher demand, and improved consumer and PMI data releases in the US. On the negative side, new Covid-19 infection 'variants' have continued to increase with the Delta variant the most perverse, and some renewed lockdown measures having been reintroduced. Investor sentiment was, however, unperturbed and boosted by the release of minutes from the Fed's monetary policy meeting which showed that the Fed's policy is to remain accommodative. The situation remains fluid and market volatility is expected to remain. The sector that fared best for the quarter ended June was Consumer Discretionary led by Richemont, Mr Price and TFG. Resources was the weakest sector for the quarter, led by Anglo American Platinum, Impala Platinum and AngloGold Ashanti as some investors banked recent gains.

Globally, central banks and governments have continued to be accommodative as a reactionary measure to tackle the pandemic. An already low interest rate environment has left authorities with limited intervention capabilities. The Fed previously announced that it will be targeting average inflation of 2% going forward meaning that US interest rates could remain lower for longer. However, due to progress made on the vaccination front, the committee indicated that it now expects a faster rate of monetary policy tightening with 2 rate hikes likely in 2023. Inflation concerns were toned down following the release of the US' CPI report which showed that inflation had increased to a 13 year high of 5% year on year in May which was largely driven by sectors of the economy that had been boosted by the easing of lockdown restrictions. This supported the Fed's view that inflation would not be persistent, and that monetary policy would remain accommodative for some time. Biden unveiled his budget for the 2022 financial year which contained plans to increase spending on infrastructure as well as social programs, while being funded by tax hikes on companies and high-income earners. Investors are finding this news flow positive for trade which should bode well for business and company earnings through the recovery process. However, business uncertainty and poor forecast visibility will remain until economies fully reopen, and sporadic lockdown restrictions have ended.

Locally, the domestic environment took cues from global markets with global Dollar weakness benefiting local industry. SA is now experiencing a 3rd wave of Covid-19 infections with Gauteng being the most affected province. Lockdown restrictions have now been tightened to alert level 3 with the night-time curfew extended, while restrictions have been imposed on alcohol sales and public gatherings. Local sentiment has continued to be negative as the country faces economic growth obstacles. South Africa's fiscal position remains constrained through poor policy decisions, and ineffective implementation by government. Financial conditions may be difficult for South Africa in the years ahead with consumer spend also anticipated to be muted. The pandemic remains a key focus with state funds allocated to the purchase and distribution of vaccines. This is an important task for government and all eyes are on the implementation rollout. On the positive end, government sold a 51% stake in SAA to the Takatso Consortium which will hopefully relieve pressure on the state's finances.

Looking forward, growth expectations for the local economy seem to be dependent on a strong recovery in global growth, improving confidence, positive local government action, and Covid-19 containment measures. Astute stock picking with our Growth at Reasonable Price (GARP) philosophy that delivers superior value through the cycle and a focus on companies whose cash flows support earnings is expected to stand us in good stead moving forward.
